Nursing Education has gone a sea change in the last 15 years. Information & Communication Technology (ICT) has played a great role in development of nursing education. Virtual nursing is a major innovation of ICT which has recently taken place. Internet and allied technologies are enhancing research implementation and enabling the practice of evidence based nursing.

The strength of nursing colleges and graduating students has been increased manifold in recent years. Even in Punjab, we are having more than 100 nursing colleges including two constituent colleges of Baba Farid University of Health Sciences (BFUHS), Faridkot viz. University College of Nursing, Faridkot and State Institute of Nursing and Paramedical Sciences, Badal, running UG and PG programs, and same is the case for other states of the country. Though most of the colleges are offering post graduate courses, yet very few people are interested in research in nursing sciences. Baba Farid University of Health Sciences, Faridkot has keen interest to create research facilities in the University and encourages the same in all the affiliated colleges.

I am very glad to know that BFUHS is publishing inaugural issue of its Nursing Journal viz. Baba Farid University Nursing Journal (BFUNJ), which will provide a research and information sharing platform to research scholars and practitioners in nursing sciences.

I congratulate Prof. Raj Rani, Chief Editor and her editorial team of BFUNJ for their untiring efforts in bringing out this maiden issue. I wish the journal a grand success.
